Honorary Degrees Conferred.

In presenting those selected for honorary degrees, Rev. J. B. Creedon eulogized the recipients as follows: orary degrees, Rev. J. B. Creedon eulogized the recipients as follows:

"Gov. Martin H. Glynn has rendered most signal services to his state and to the nation, and because of this we deem him worthy to receive the highest honors which are in our power to confer. He is an esteemed alumnus of the arts school of our much respected sister university. Fordham. Soon after leaving college he was chosen by his fellow-citizens to represent them in the legislative assembly of the nation, and, having performed that duty well, he was later selected to fill various public offices, which he did to the great satisfaction of all and to his increasing fame. Finally, at a time of greatest difficulty, and under circumstances most trying, he was raised to the highest office in the greatest of commonwealths. And so well did he perform the onerous task intrusted to him that in a short time he had restored peace and quiet to a distracted state. He promulgated laws that were beneficial to the agricultural interests, he facilitated transportation by improving the internal waterways and he bettered the conditions of the working man."

"As a man of action he drew to him widespread attention and deserved to be chosen several times by his fellow citizens for posts of public office.

"It was a common joy when, recently, the President of these United States appointed him to the honorable if irksome position of commissioner of patents.

"Georgetown honors herself today in honoring that most noted alumnus of her school of medicine, Taber Johnson, whose persevering and unremitting work of teaching has endeared him to his alma mater, whose skillful surgery has aimdebted to him so many sufferers of womankind, whose words and writings have merited so much from his disciples and from the whole medical profession.

"It is with the greatest joy that now, after forty years have passed since she sent him forth from her halls as a bachelor of arts, this university confers upon her much beloved son and alumnus, Joseph Percy Keating, a special sign of her much beloved son and alumnus, Joseph Percy Keating, a special sign of her faffection and esteem. This son of an eminent father devoted himself to the study of law, and with such fidelity did he adhere to the principles he had learned in his college days that he won the admiration of all good clitzens.

"Francis Baker, distinguished for his studies in anatomy, has brought great remown to our medical school by his long years of devoted teaching and by his well known contributions to medical literature."
